

CLASH OF CARDS

A long time ago, there waged a long and costly war. From the valleys of the south hailed the Standard Purchase Card (P-Card). With gleaming black swords and obsidian armor, the Standard P-Cards represented all that was wrong with modern fuel purchasing systems. In short, their time had passed – but they refused to go without a fight.

From the mountains to the north rallied the AssetWorks TRIPCard. They sported pure white shields and armor, crested in gold, reflecting brilliantly in the medieval sun. They fought for righteous purchases, truthful reporting and honorable integration.

TRIPCARD

Standard Purchase Card (P-Card)

1. Employee makes a fuel or part purchase using P-card.
2. Supervisor is immediately notified of purchase via real time integration.
3. Parameters are placed on spending limits, swipes and geography for future tracking.
4. Costs are then able to be tracked directly to the unit or department for reconciliation and better business insights.
5. AssetWorks TRIPCard real time integration prevents COSTS from being LOST and allows managers to track and reconcile p-card purchases in real time without losing focus on what matters most.

1. Employee makes a fuel or part purchase using P-card.
2. Costs are sent to entity via web portal or paper invoice the next day.
3. Costs are ignored or attempts at reconciliation are too difficult to track.
4. Employees are unable to track costs.
5. Fuel and part costs are left unreconciled and lost in the chasm.

Only one card can rule.
